Thank you to those people who made scones, butter tarts, cookies, tea biscuits & muffins. Thank you to those people who worked in the kitchen making tea & coffee, serving goodies & manning the dishwasher, kept washrooms tidy & well stocked, put up advertising signs & installed air conditioners & tidied up kitchen & hall when it was all over. Thank you to our wonderful decorator & her daughters who helped. Thank you to those people who served the goodies, cleared tables, manned the cash table, greeted visitors & operated the elevator. We did not make sandwiches this year & they were missed. Hopefully next year! Thank you to Ken Gannett for looking after our expenses & writing up a report.

Matthew Whitfield

Considered "one of Canada's most gifted musicians," Matthew Whitfield is an organist, conductor, composer, and writer who specializes in giving eclectic and exciting performances. Also a writer, Matthew is the Early Music & Pipe Organ columnist for WholeNote Magazine. Matthew received his musical training from York University, where he earned his BFA studying with Stephanie Martin, and the University of Toronto, where he received his MMus and worked with John Tuttle. While at the University of Toronto, Matthew performed in masterclasses with Canadian organists Ken Cowan and Isabelle Demers and won prizes in national and regional organ competitions. An advocate of contemporary and new music, Matthew frequently performs repertoire from the 20th and 21st centuries, including works by Schnittke, Ligeti, Cage, and Glass. Matthew gave the North American premiere of Ted Dawson's 'Six Preludes for Organ' in August 2015 and his recording of Dawson's 'Preludes' and John Cage's 'ASLSP2' was released in March 2016. He is currently preparing to record Ted Dawson's complete keyboard works - encompassing music for piano, organ, and harpsichord - in collaboration with the composer. As a conductor and harpsichordist, Matthew has performed numerous choral and vocal works, including the York University production of Purcell's 'Dido and Aeneas'. Having studied choral conducting with Lisette Canton and orchestral conducting with Mark Chambers, Matthew has a well-developed technique that he uses to explore works from the Baroque and Modern eras. Matthew is currently Organist & Director of Music at St. John the Baptist (Norway) Anglican Church in Toronto. To contact Matthew, visit his website: www.orguenouveau.com

MINUTE FOR MISSION

JULY 29, 2018

FEEDING BODY AND SOUL

Our gifts for Mission & Service, alongside our emergency appeal funds, support Haitian farmers in the wake of Hurricane Matthew.

On the night of October 3, 2016, Hurricane Matthew tore through the southwest region of Haiti. Powerful winds and torrential rain washed away fields, livestock, and homes and ripped roofs off houses, churches, and schools. The only bridge linking the region to the rest of the country was destroyed. Suddenly, farmers who had been exporting agricultural produce could no longer feed even their own families.

People of The United Church of Canada responded generously. The money raised was divided among Mission & Service partners in Haiti: the Methodist Church in Haiti, ACT International (an ecumenical emergency and development coalition), and the Institut Culturel Karl Lévêque (ICKL). $25,000 was directed to ICKL, a popular education and development agency that is a long-time United Church partner. ICKL used these emergency funds from the United Church to purchase rice, maize, beans, and cooking oil and to truck it over nearly impassable roads to communities where people had gone for days without food or shelter from the heavy rain. The food was distributed not only to groups associated with ICKL but also to the wider community. "They were hungry, too," the farmers say.

It is this spirit of cooperation, mutual support, and self-sufficiency that ICKL encourages and nurtures through its training and group animation workshops that are supported by our ongoing gifts for Mission & Service. Mission & Service supports our ongoing partnership with ICKL and its work that feeds both body and soul.

If Mission & Service giving is already a regular part of your life, thank you so much! If you have not given, please join me in making Mission & Service giving a regular part of your life of faith. Loving our neighbour is at the heart of our Mission & Service.
